STRUCTURAL FAMILY THERAPY INTENSIVE TRAINING

Offered in collaboration with United Family Services

Structural Family Therapy Intensive Training is designed for clinicians who have a minimum of a Master's Degree in a clinical field of study who wish to develop their understanding of the principles of the Structural model. This 20-hour course features a comprehensive presentation of the concepts and techniques of Structural Family Therapy through an in depth analysis of video recordings of Dr. Salvador Minuchin and other senior structural family therapists, discussions of cases presented by the participants and role plays of the application of theory to practice.

Participants will be able to:

- Define and describe the structural theory of family, problems, and therapeutic change.
- Reframe problems from an individual to an interpersonal perspective.
- Assess family organization utilizing mapping and the structural family therapy concepts of complementarity and competence.
- Utilize purposefully the structural family techniques of joining, reframing, enactment, realigning, and unbalancing
- Apply structural concepts and techniques to intervention on the family/school and family/agencies interface.

FACULTY:

Daniel Minuchin, MA, LMFT is a licensed marriage and family therapist. He is on the faculty of the Minuchin Center for the Family. He is an adjunct faculty at Hofstra University. He is on the faculty of the NY Society for Ericksonian Psychotherapy and Hypnosis. He has been a practicing family therapist for 35 years. Mr. Minuchin has provided consultation and training around working with families to agencies working in foster care, residential treatment, substance abuse, psychiatric and home-based treatment, and, for a number of years, was a consultant and trainer for the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health. He maintains an active interest in how the public and non-profit sectors, and helping institutions in general, can interact with families more productively.

Mr. Minuchin is a co author of a manual "Training Manual for Foster Parents Based on an Ecological Perspective" by Patricia Minuchin with Anne Brooks, Jorge Colapinto, Ema Genijovich, Daniel Minuchin and Salvador Minuchin Family Studies Inc., New York, NY 1990

Mr. Minuchin has an interest in conflict resolution and was a certified mediator in Massachusetts. He also has a longstanding interest in Eriksonian hypnosis and is a certified hypnotherapist. He is a Clinical Member of the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy (AAMFT) and an AAMFT Approved Supervisor.

Mr. Minuchin received his BA in psychology from Clark University in 1977 and his Masters in counseling psychology from Antioch University in 1983. He studied family therapy at the Kantor Institute and Atlanticare in Massachusetts

Mr. Minuchin has a private practice in Manhattan. He also provides training, supervision, and consultation on working with families. He teaches family therapy to agencies and in schools, and also teaches hypnosis.

Richard Holm, DSW, LCSW, LMFT has extensive experience providing consultation, training and supervision at home-based services, community-based and residential treatment centers for adolescent substance abusers, and inpatient and outpatient mental health systems. He contributed to a chapter in Minuchin et al.'s Working with Families of the Poor (2nd ed.). Richard is a Clinical Member of the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy, an AAMFT Approved Supervisor, and a former Associate Professor in the Department of Human Services, CUNY-New York City College of Technology. His special interest is in helping develop and implement family-centered services in agencies that serve marginalized populations.

Structural Family Therapy is currently under study as an evidence-based model for child welfare preventative services:

MCF Current Research

Jorge Colapinto, LPsych, LMFT and Richard Holm, are in their third year of a joint project with Brooklyn Community Services, sponsored by the Annie E Casey Foundation, to develop a model for practice for child welfare preventative services based on Structural Family Therapy.
